The Recruitment of a Project-based Faculty

for the Arete Honors Program at NYCU

1. Position Title: Project-based Assistant Professor (or above).
2. Description: Arete Honors Program was established in 2017 and admits undergraduate students through a special admission track. This program seeks students with special expertise and potential in areas such as "interdisciplinary learning," "critical inquiry," "innovative sustainability," "leadership," "humanistic cultivation," or "aesthetic application," along with a strong passion for knowledge. For detailed reference, please visit the official Arete Honors Program website (https://aretehp.nycu.edu.tw/). Since students in the Arete Honors Program come from various professional fields, we plan to publicly recruit one project-based faculty member with experience in guiding interdisciplinary learning and research for these students. The appointment is expected to begin on February 1, 2026 or August 1, 2026.
3. Qualifications
   (1) Priority will be given to applicants with a doctoral degree in the field of management; however, candidates in the fields such as humanities and social sciences, law, art, or education are also eligible.
   (2) Applicants should have published papers in domestic and international journals (including accepted papers) within the last three years, or have received awards in domestic or international professional competitions.
   (3) Experience in executing research projects or industry-academia collaboration projects is preferable.
   (4) Preference will be given to those with experience in guiding undergraduate students (in areas such as student campus life, academic adaptation, etc.), supervising interdisciplinary projects for undergraduate students, or possessing interdisciplinary learning and research experience.
   (5) The applicants should be able to teach required courses for the program (e.g., Arete To-Be Curriculum Reference: https://reurl.cc/nmW5Ed, Reading Classics of Humanities and Sciences Curriculum Reference: https://reurl.cc/eMjmLx), as well as courses related to their area of expertise, and perform student counseling, learning consultation, recruitment tasks, and related affairs for the Arete Honors Program.
4. Application Materials
   (1) Review Documents

I. Curriculum vitae, list of publications, doctoral degree certificate (or proof of expected graduation), and master's and bachelor's degree certificates. Applicants with foreign diploma must be notarized in advance by an overseas office of the Republic of China (Taiwan).

II. Applying for the position of Associate Professor (or above): Associate Professor (or above) certification; applying for Assistant Professor: a copy of university (or higher) transcripts and doctoral thesis.

III. Full texts of academic publications from the last five years: up to five items.

IV. Two Recommendation Letters: Applicants for Associate Professor (or above) should provide the names (and contact information) of at least two referees; Applicants for Assistant Professor should submit at least two letters of recommendation.

V. Description of Courses Available for Teaching:

  i. Syllabus for Arete To-Be or Reading Classics of Humanities and Sciences.

  ii. Provide syllabi for at least one course related to your expertise.

VI. A one-page statement of teaching and research.

(2) Other Relevant Materials: Any additional information beneficial for the review process, such as the approved list of project execution, certification for serving as a student project advisor, proof of experience in mentoring undergraduate students, etc.

5. Applicants should scan all documents in the specified order above and email with the subject line "Application for Project-based Faculty" to the program coordinator, Ms. Wang, at aretehp@nycu.edu.tw, before August 15, 2025 (Friday).

6. Recommendation letters can also be sent by the recommenders in electronic format with their signatures via email to Ms. Wang at aretehp@nycu.edu.tw.

7. To facilitate subsequent review work, applicants are encouraged to submit once the application materials are ready.
